INDUSTRIES

Accountants Defense

John is currently on a leave of absence from the firm while pursuing his candidacy for Attorney General of the Commonwealth of Virginia.

John is the former Chair of the firm's Government Investigations and White Collar Litigation Department, which was recently recognized by Law360 as a "Practice Group of the Year." Drawing on his deep experience in both private practice and government service, John represents corporations, boards, and executives facing significant legal, regulatory, and reputational risk in criminal, civil, and congressional proceedings. He has resolved complex investigations through innovative settlements and successfully tried cases as both a federal prosecutor and defense counsel. He recently secured a full acquittal for a bank executive following a 10-week jury trial in a case brought by the Department of Justice.

In addition to his Government Investigations practice, John is frequently called upon by firm clients to brief and argue appeals in courts across the country. He routinely advises clients with matters pending before the United States Supreme Court and has briefed matters before the Court, and he has also represented clients in dealings with the Solicitor General's Office. He is a Co-Chair of the firm's Appeals and Strategic Issues Team.

Prior to joining McGuireWoods, John served in positions of significant responsibility throughout the government. As Associate Counsel to the President of the United States, he represented the Office of the President in congressional investigations and other sensitive matters. His primary responsibility included handling issues arising out of the Department of Defense and State Department. In addition, he coordinated with the Department of Justice on litigation implicating the Office of the President. And as an Assistant U.S. Attorney for the Eastern District of Virginia, he tried cases ranging from fraud to violent crime and managed complex grand jury investigations involving fraud, public corruption, and other matters.

John served as law clerk to Associate Justice Clarence Thomas on the U.S. Supreme Court from 2006 to 2007 and to Circuit Judge David B. Sentelle on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit from 2003 to 2004. Prior to becoming an attorney, he served as a United States Naval Officer from 1996 to 2000.

John is the firm-wide Hiring Partner and Co-Chairs McGuireWoods' Recruiting Committee. He is involved in the community and has previously served as an adjunct professor of Appellate and Trial Advocacy at the University of Richmond T.C. Williams School of Law. He serves as a trustee of the VMI Foundation.

EXPERIENCE

RECENT PUBLICLY AVAILABLE GOVERNMENT INVESTIGATIONS AND LITIGATION MATTERS

- As lead trial counsel, obtained a full acquittal for a bank executive following a ten-week jury trial in a case brought by the Department of Justice following the bank's failure, while all co-defendants were found guilty on multiple charges.
- Developed and leads an innovative litigation and crisis management team for one of the world's largest financial institutions.

- Resolved a years-long criminal investigation into activities related to the mortgage foreclosure crisis at one of the nation's largest banks with a non-criminal settlement.
- Resolved a grand jury investigation into accounting practices at a major, national accounting firm with no charges brought forward.
- Led an internal investigation related to money-laundering activity at one of the nation's largest banks that concluded with no adverse action to the institution.
- Defended multiple corporations and executives in various Congressional and grand jury investigations that are not publicly available.
