

Energy Litigation

McGuireWoods consistently maintains a significant volume of high-stakes, high-profile litigation in the coal, coal-bed methane gas, natural gas, pipeline, cogeneration, nuclear, alternative energy and utility industries.

We have also been engaged for regulatory matters, internal investigations, and the appeal of energy related matters. Our Energy Litigation group includes trial lawyers with industry-specific knowledge, but among the firm's strengths is the ability to integrate experienced trial lawyers with equally effective lawyers focusing on transactional and regulatory matters, mineral rights and government investigations. This integrated approach has resulted in a model that keeps leaders in the energy sector returning to McGuireWoods for advice and representation.
